Date : 27 February 2010 (Saturday) Venue : HKJC Tin Shui Wai Telebet Centre
Time : 09:30 a.m. – 12:00 noon

Programme Highlights

Located in Hong Kong Housing Authority estate complex in Tin Shui Wai, the Hong Kong Jockey Club Tin Shui Wai Telebet Centre takes up 2 storeys of spaces that once were car park making up a total of some 55,000 sq. ft. This big conversion of use meant a number of challenges to be overcome: the parking spaces with low headroom of 2.4m, and accommodation of over 1,000 staff members considerable building services would be a fundamental must, on top of which community and staff caring design elements would have to be incorporated to meet the Club's objectives. Overhead barrisol diffused illumination in minimizing excessive glare and irregular shaped apertures for air-conditioning vents also help visual stress relief. Together with the raised floor of the interlocking modular seating system, all the cabling and ducting for building services and IT facilities are carefully concealed. Prior to the site tour, the participants will have a brief session for introducing the Design for Occupational Health and Safety and Building Services System from the design conceptual stage to the implementation stage.
