Speaker

Samuel Ngo is a solicitor admitted in Hong Kong SAR. He is a solicitor in the Dispute Resolution Group of Simmons & Simmons. He was a building services engineer before he started pursuing his legal career. He is an affiliate member of Chartered Institution of Building Services Engineers and Hong Kong Institution of Engineers.

Programme Highlights

Building Services Works have been a pivotal part of property developments with the increasing demand for human comfort and advancement of technology. Despite the downturn in recent years, the steady recovery in the construction industry presents both risks and opportunities to employers, consultants and contractors. This coincides with case law development in the past decade. How to manage risks and maximize opportunities?

This seminar focuses upon the identification of:-

- (1) Duties of Employers, E&M consultants and E&M contractors.
- (2) Risks facing Employers, E&M consultants and E&M contractors and appropriate risk management in view of the relevant case law development.
