Industrial and commercial customers are now paying increasing attention to Power Quality (PQ). With the proliferation of electronic automation and control devices in plant and machinery such as lifts, escalators, chiller plants and production machinery, more and more customers have been experiencing equipment malfunctions and stoppages resulting from various power quality problems.

CLP Power offers a full range of services to deal with PQ concerns. Their services effectively enable customers to understand PQ issues, protect their equipment, and solve their PQ related problems.

In this visit, CLP Power will share with us the common PQ problems and case studies on how these problems were successfully rectified.
